

iConnect Training Crossword

Down:

1. A unit of measurement used for determining cooling capacity.
3. A mechanical device used to reduce energy consumption.
5. A movable plate that opens and closes to control airflow.
7. The amount of moisture in the air.
8. A component designed to move air through a system.

Across:

2. All in One System.
4. A passive component that stores electrical energy in an electric field.
6. A temperature-control device, typically found on a wall inside a conditioned space.
9. Taking used refrigerant gas out of a system and filling it into containers.
10. The different boiling temperatures of the various components of a refrigerant blend.

_____
 First Name                                      Last Name                                      Company Name

_____
 Street Address                                      City                                      State/Region                                      Zip code

_____
 Country                                      Number of Technicians/Students Taught HVAC/R Each Year

_____
 E-mail                                      Cell Phone Number                                      Work Phone Number